Gerrard Barton died in Toronto, Canada, on Sunday last. For three years he was instructor of music in Oahu College and organist in St. cathedral, and left here at the end of the school year last June. Mrs. Barton, whom he married in Santa Barbara, Cal., was also a music teacher in Oahu College but left here a year before her husband, going to Europe for musical studies and rejoining her husband in Toronto. Mr. Barton was a highly accomplished musician, a composer as well as performer. He was born in England and received his musical training at Oxford. The cause of his death was pneumonia.

AN AFFECTING ROMANCE.

The Friend: I have lately received from a lady in California a story narrated at a missionary meeting by a visiting minister about the Hawaiian mission. The lady had the good sense to write to me for verification of its truth, which she somewhat doubted. It is as follows:

"A traveler went to the Sandwich Islands, and attended a native church. Becoming interested, he got into conversation with a lady, who told him that she had come out to marry a missionary, but when she reached the islands, the young man had been killed and eaten by the savages. She remained to work, and told the traveler, that the native preacher in the pulpit that day was the chief who had killed and feasted on her betrothed."

"The story sounded all right."

Many remarkable stories have been administered here about missionaries to gullible strangers. Can any one report a stranger story?

A lady friend suggests that this story is incomplete. It should have been added that the lady applied herself to the conversion of the cannibal chief, and then married him, and so fulfilled as nearly as possible her original engagement to her incorporated fiancé.

Hawaiians, by the way, always had a horror of cannibalism. S. E. B.

KING OF ALL COUGH MEDICINES.

Mr. E. G. Case, a mail carrier of Canton Center, Connecticut, U. S. A., who has been in the United States Service for about sixteen years, says:

"We have tried many cough medicines for croup, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is king of all and one to be relied upon every time. We also find it the best remedy for coughs and colds, giving certain results and leaving no bad after effects. We are never without it in the house. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., agents for Hawaii."

President L. E. Pinkham of the Board of Health has sent a circular letter to the government physicians on all the islands requesting statistics as to the number of people who are deaf, dumb or blind. He has asked the physicians to divide these into two classes, adults and children. The government physicians are in constant touch with the schools, and in that and other ways will soon be able to return to Mr. Pinkham fairly complete statistics on this subject. The request for this information is in connection with Governor Carter's proposal for a deaf and dumb school should the number of defectives on the island warrant its erection.
